To the Rules Docket,

Regarding the problem of too much noise at the Grand Canyon I offer the following suggestion: Let all those invested in flying tourists over the Grand Canyon join together and as a group purchase one or two Blimps that can hold alot of passengers and travel almost noiselessly over the canyon. If each investor gains a percentage of profits appropriate to their input in money, time and maintenance, then all can still profit from the tourist business. This would provide a quieter and safer mode of air travel over the Grand Canyon. Please 'offer this as a serious suggestions to those airline companies that have a vested interest in the Grand Canyon flight problem.

Thankyou,
Kathleen Milazzo
